WIRELESS TELECOMMUNICATIONS BUREAU SEEKS COMMENT ON MODIFIED 911 CALL PROCESSING METHOD PROPOSED BY MOTOROLA (WT Docket No. 99-328)

COMMENTS DUE: November 6, 2002

REPLIES DUE: November 18, 2002

In the Wireless E911 Second Report and Order, the Commission adopted Section 22.921 of the rules.¹ This rule helps improve wireless 911 call completion by requiring new wireless handsets capable of operating in the analog mode to be able to complete 911 calls to either analog carrier in an area, using a 911 call completion method approved by the Commission. The requirement took effect on February 13, 2000. In the Second Report and Order, the Commission also approved three specific call completion methods and delegated authority to the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau to consider new or revised 911 call processing methods.²

On September 20, 2002, Motorola filed a request for approval of a modification of the Automatic A/B Roaming-Intelligent Retry (A/B-IR) 911 call processing method approved by the Commission in the Wireless E911 Second Report and Order.³ This modification would affect the way wireless 911 calls are processed in a limited set of cases, specifically when a 911 call is terminated prematurely, without action by caller or call-taker – for example, because of loss of signal. In this situation, under the A/B-IR method, the handset would immediately attempt to complete the call using alternate channels and systems until the call is completed. Under the revised method, the phone would remain on the paging channel of the wireless carrier that last served the call for a period of five minutes, but would not attempt to reconnect the call. Motorola indicates that, in instances where a callback number is delivered to the emergency call center, the revised call completion method will enable the call center to reinitiate contact with the phone.⁴ After five minutes, the phone would return to normal scanning for service.⁵ The caller could also at any time place a new 911 call, with full 911 call processing.⁶ Motorola asserts that this modification will assist PSAPs in handling wireless 911 and will help to reduce unintentional 911 calls.
